A program of national airs and popular music has been arranged and the hotel is expected to be the center of attraction in the city tonight. Many Shriner windows will be displayed by the prominent merchants, while numerous signs are being placed time allowed in connection with the to welcome the visitors. The Hawaiian Duke of York's visit did not quite fall hotel wears a gala air with a display of bunting and a new illuminated sign representing the Hawaiian coat of arms will be mounted for the first time during the Shriners' trip. Realizing the impossibility of arranging a continuous program of amusement for every day of the stay, a procedure which would be apt to pall on the most interested visitor, the various committees have contented themselves with a few special affairs, the intervals between which will be filled by private entertainment.

Fans of the same material have been similarly ornamented for the visiting ladies. An elaborate souvenir program in colors has been printed, couched in the Shriner vernacular and conveying the general orders of the visit. Allan Dunn is responsible for their artistic and literary merit. Aside from the mysterious and mystic rites and ceremonies connected with the institution of the new temple, the time and place of which are withheld at present from the Giaours or infidels, the following events have been determined

The Shriners will attend en masse in full regalia, to the number of some three hundred, the rest of the house being available to the general public. The theater will be profuse'y decorated and Louis Morrison will be How Red-Fezzed called upon to make a before-the-curtain speech, a role in which he is particularly happy. The peculiarities of the various members of the brotherhood both local and visiting will be freely commented upon, the Shriners usually making the most of such occasions to vent their hilarity. A visit to the sugar plantations and Waialua is planned, with a lunch in prospective at the Haleiwa hotel. To wind up, there will be a celebration at the Moana hotel, reserved strictly for Shriners. During the stay it is safe to say that the whole A BIG TIME Island will be widely exploited for the benefit of the visitors, many of whom are well known merchants and bankers, who will come here with an eye open for profitable investment as well gamut of Honolulu's pleasure trove. The Masonic Temple has been decorated and a bureau of information instituted there for the benefit of the new-
